

An illustration depicting a family of four—a mother, a father, and two children—walking across a green globe. In the center of the globe is a large, colorful ball of yarn, with strands of orange, red, blue, and green. The yarn strands extend from the ball, looping around the globe and ending in a braid held by a large, brown, textured hand at the bottom. The family members are walking along the top edge of the globe. The mother is on the left, carrying a brown bag, followed by a young girl. Then a young boy, and finally the father on the right, also carrying a brown bag. The background is a warm yellow-orange color with stylized green trees and a small red bird perched on a strand of yarn. A white dove is also visible in the upper left.
